—Alfred S. Tirrell will go to the Bismarck, about December 1, where he will act as night watchman at one of the hotels of that famous resort.

—An alarm of fire was rung from Box 312 Tuesday night at about 11.15 and proved to be occasioned by a blaze at the blacksmith shop of Michael Reilly on Union street. The chemical apparatus and the hose company were quickly on the scene and the fire was soon subdued, after burning a big hole in the roof of the shop. The cause of the conflagration is unknown. This fire showed the necessity of having a night patrolman, and fortunately Officer Allen discovered the blaze and at once rung in the alarm.

—A fire alarm box is needed at May's corner. Had the fire at Henry Thomas's not been discovered as quickly as it was, or had it been started in the dead of night, it would have gained very great headway and have proved decidedly dangerous to several houses in the vicinity before an alarm could have been sounded. It is almost criminal to neglect so populous a neighborhood as there is at this point in this respect and the proper officials should take action upon it immediately. The need of this precaution has been agitated before, but no action was taken upon the matter. The people living in this section have some rights that the engineers must respect.

—There is a law against people bathing in Great Pond, from which the town water supply is drawn. Yet most folks will let their children swim in it as if it were a pond of water. It is a law that a child of a certain age who has been in the water for a long time, and the town water would not be contaminated by the near presence of many cattle as is now the case.

—Thomas V. Nash started Monday to pursue his studies on board the training ship Enterprise, having passed the necessary examinations.

—Resolutions adopted by the Council for the dissolution of Rev. J. V. Clancy. "In view of the facts presented to the statements made, the Council advises the dissolution of the pastoral relation and says that it is influenced by a desire to further the interests of the church in this community, and to increase our brother's usefulness in the ministry of our Lord Jesus Christ. We have heard with pleasure the record of the two and a half years of consecrated service of Mr. Clancy in this community, and which service we feel sure, but for an unfortunate complication, would have been continued for many years. As he goes forth to another field of labor, we bid him God speed, and commend him heartily to the churches, as a brother beloved, a worker devoted to his calling, and a preacher true to the deepest principles of our Christian faith. To the church, in the spirit of kindness and fraternity, we would utter the exhortation to these things which make for peace, and would pray that God in His infinite wisdom and love would indicate to the one who shall go in and out before them as an undershepherd and an overseer of the interests of the kingdom of Christ as represented by this church."

Talking about names, the combination of "Irish & English" has always seemed to me a good advertisement. Singular to say, however, Mr. Irish is English and Mr. English is Irish.—Halla Times.

Johnston, Pa., baffle first of priors, and the "Irish" who have recently dissolved partnership because of mutual disagreement.

A lawyer in a court room may call a man a liar, slanderer, villain and no one makes a complaint. Deadweight prints such a man's name in the "Irish" character there is a libel suit or a dead editor. This must be owing to the fact that the people believe what an editor says and what the "Irish" says. —Richmond (Que.) Times.

In a secret circular sent out by the Irish League is the following mandate: "Set your heart upon the woman suffrage movement every time, for the ballot in the hands of women means the downfall of the Empire." This confession, if none other, is a cogent reason why woman should be permitted to vote.—Quincy Ledger.

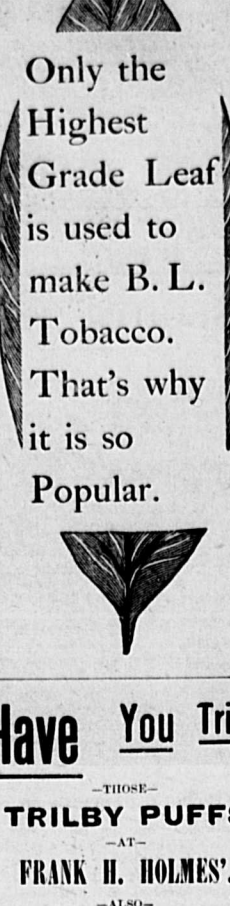

Dr. Mary Walker's colonists must take a vow of celibacy. If they are not, they will be expelled from the colony for their taking any such vow.—Riverside Enterprise.

Robert G. Ingersoll says he likes the new woman.—Chicago News.

The new woman is generally old.

Paris has a new periodical entitled Journal for Mother-in-Law. The editor says that his object is to defend the social interests of mothers-in-law, and to correct their faults, far as possible by means of friendly criticism.—Quincy Paper.

"Wife of a Benevolent Home and knowing the good Dr. Miles' Nervine has done me, my wish to help others, overcomes my dislike for the publicity, this letter may give me. In Nov. and Dec., 1898, The inmates had the 'LaGrippe', and I was one of the first. Bounding day too soon, with the care of so many sick, I did not regain my health, and in a month I became so debilitated and nervous from sleeplessness and the drafts made on my vitality, that it was a question if I could go on. My dear friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I took 2 bottles and am happy to say, I am in better health than ever. I will continue its occasional use, as a nerve food, as my work is very trying. A letter addressed to Milwaukee, Wis., will reach me."

JUNE 6, 1904. MRS. LAURA C. PHOENIX.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. Allergists will find it a 60 bottle cure, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of proof by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Racine, Wis.

OBSTINATE STUMPS.

Cut Close to the Ground and Collect the Over Them.

The chestnut flourishes in rich, sandy loam, on rolling land, and growing tall and broad and heavy, develops a network of roots that are interlaced every few inches, and make an anchorage that clings together in spite of any attempts of removing the stumps. Heavy charges of Hercules powder blow big holes in the stumps' embow, exposing and mauling some of the roots, but not so as

HUNTING OVER A STUMP.

complishing much save to make tedious grubbing painful. Applied to the stump, the stump stays explosive tear away the top, but does little injury to the network of roots below. Every other charge, however, of special No. V dynamite, will blow away the top, leaving a reasonable cost, or by waiting for natural causes half a dozen years. An Ohio chestnut forest of special No. Vermont chestnut farm is a chestnut ridge, has found one best way to deal with these stumps. This is illustrated in the first cut, as we cut off a length of three feet high, so we cut off a length of three feet high. I take one of the narrow bladed, fine cutting, crescent saws and saw off the stump just above ground. In clearing saw the trees low down and make no stump, but I have 20 or 40 cut from five to ten years ago, which I am returning to decayation as fast as I can cut low under cultivation. They are cut low, none being more than 20 inches high, so we cut off a length of three feet high 17 inches long. In many cases this leaves no stump of any account, and in the tallest the stumps are only five or nine inches high. The use of a stump puller or stump puller or stump puller or stump puller was growing grain. As it is a chestnut forest, it is a chestnut forest, without reference to the stump, as no serious obstruction. My man runs over those that are tight with the bar. I believe that it takes less time to saw them off with a stump puller than to haul them to a stump, and the cultivator easily saws over them.

"UP A STUMP" IN CULTIVATING.

The advantage in plowing is plain. The plow turns the hard, harrow comes away and roller all stumps sawed within five inches of the ground or over.

After the ground has been plowed or rolled, the stump puller is used. It is pulled up into about a cord, six or eight feet long.

In case of a pear orchard in which many large stumps of bur oak were left, the writer's plan was to now close the ground and let the stumps blow out away. In plowing next to stumps sawed close to the ground it is possible to blow them out. The writer has a couple of times to plow right up to a stump and set it directly beyond, at three or four minutes work with the tractor will dig up all that remains and all the rich soil around the stump may be utilized for crops instead of waste.

Best Time for Stump Pulling.

When the soil becomes too hard an important item as to how much is required for safe wintering for the best themselves. Authorities differ, varying from the middle of October to the middle of November, depending on manner of wintering, winter itself and the size of the colonies. The writing in American Beekeeping says:

"For northern climates I prefer to winter bees to be done upon the first of November. I would insist that beekeepers in Indiana require less store than the colonies in Michigan; perhaps a third less. This, I think, is the chief advantage of indoor wintering, except perhaps when wintering may be done in the open air. Probably the majority of professional beekeepers, however, winter indoors."

It is a common idea that the bees while only the best honey will be market, anything that the bees will not eat is good. Good honey is not the best honey. Winter danger to bees is from and this is usually caused by the use of unsuited or adulterated food. Of the two causes I consider the first most common. The very best feed for winter is pure white honey. That seems to contain the least indigestible matter. To this comes pure honey of a darker shade. If artificial food be necessary, use pure granulated sugar syrup.

Lime Is Great Land.

At the Rhode Island station the seed of a good catch of grubs saved on lime proved to be the application of a slaked lime, in connection with a good grass fertilizer. The latter, without dressing of lime, proved ineffective. Director Flagg believes the effect of the lime is twofold—it corrects an excess of acid condition in the soil and renders the soil more retentive of moisture.

Friday, November 8, 1905.

Col. Lovell ran well in Quincy and Brainerd holding up with the lead on the ticket.

The Boston papers have it that Col. H. A. Thomas will be a candidate for Congress next fall against Mr. Morse.

Col. Ben's vote in Weymouth was highly complimentary to our genial treasurer. He led the whole ticket with 103 votes to his credit.

Judge Flint led his nearest associate on the representative ticket 112 votes in Weymouth, thus showing his popularity at home. At Quincy, Thompson ran 225, and Newcomb 115 votes ahead of him but in the total vote of the district the Judge ranks second falling only 20 votes behind Thompson. It looks as though the Quincy republicans had tried a little sharp practice and voted for the Quincy men alone, while the republican vote for all the candidates on the ticket averaged over 1700. Judge Flint's vote was 1303 in the city. It is, of course, possible that this difference was caused largely by many Quincy republicans casting complimentary votes for their distinguished townsman, Dr. Everett, and thus ignoring Weymouth's claim entirely. At the best, this being Weymouth, with Quincy far from satisfactory and we hope there may soon be a change.

The Expected Happens.
The election is over and this time the expected happened, at least so far as Weymouth is concerned.

There were no disappointments in the result. In every instance the man we were elected for the properties which have been universal during the entire campaign. It was a model day for people to be out about and as business is not specially rushing in any of the factories and mills, then, close for the occasion the surprise is that no larger per cent of the qualified availed themselves of the privilege of American citizenship.

On Wednesday evening, October 26, a. m. and dragged itself slowly along until half past one or two o'clock when the clocking times in different precincts.

The average per cent of the vote was sixty-six, precinct three standing at the head of the list with seventy-six while precinct four stopped at sixty per cent.

THE GENERAL RESULT.

His Representative Year All Around.
Gov. Greenhalge's plurality is 65,000. The A. P. opposition did not materialize to any extent.

The majority for no on the Women's suffrage question is 77,000. It is manifest that the men of Massachusetts do not wish the women to be tainted by being mixed up in political intrigues. We are tempted to say that women are held in very high respect and esteem by the state's men and that from a desire to keep the women sacred to the home and fire, and not from a spirit of tyranny that our men register themselves opposed to woman suffrage.

The whole country seems to be strongly republican now. From nearly everywhere the returns have been republican by large majorities, Ohio by 114,000 New York 600, Utah is republican. For the first time since the war, Maryland has been carried by the republican party.

The women's vote was 15,487 yes and 729 no, on the suffrage question. The small number of women who take interest enough to vote at all.

Sheriff Edicott is a handsome, faithful and efficient officer in an important position.

Dr. Everett's personal popularity did not get him at the state house this year and we should not think it worth. For why should personal popularity influence people's votes? We vote for policies and not for a person to represent us and not a democrat. That is the whole story. Nothing whatever against Dr. Everett.

Dr. Everett ran 24 ahead of Williams in Weymouth.

Sheriff Edicott's plurality is about 3500 in the county.

Weymouth gave Greenhalge a roaring plurality 1075, against 595 for Williams; 210 plurality.

RHEUMATIC PAINS.

Dr. David Kennedy's statement that the real cause of Rheumatism was the imperfect action of the kidneys, and that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy opened the clogged ducts permitted the secretions to pass off, relief followed. Following a natural result was no reasonable that sufficient relief would be obtained by the use of a remedy that would cure the kidneys and the Rheumatism has been cured by its use.

"I was troubled with pains in my back and hips. My eyes swelled so that I could not see for three or four days at a time. I became so weak that I could not get up. At last I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The first bottle helped my appetite and the second gave me strength. By the third bottle my back was a great deal better and the pains had left my hips. I am now taking over five bottles and I am as well as usual."

Friday, November 8, 1905.

Col. Lovell ran well in Quincy and Brainerd holding up with the lead on the ticket.

The Boston papers have it that Col. H. A. Thomas will be a candidate for Congress next fall against Mr. Morse.

Col. Ben's vote in Weymouth was highly complimentary to our genial treasurer. He led the whole ticket with 103 votes to his credit.

Judge Flint led his nearest associate on the representative ticket 112 votes in Weymouth, thus showing his popularity at home. At Quincy, Thompson ran 225, and Newcomb 115 votes ahead of him but in the total vote of the district the Judge ranks second falling only 20 votes behind Thompson. It looks as though the Quincy republicans had tried a little sharp practice and voted for the Quincy men alone, while the republican vote for all the candidates on the ticket averaged over 1700. Judge Flint's vote was 1303 in the city. It is, of course, possible that this difference was caused largely by many Quincy republicans casting complimentary votes for their distinguished townsman, Dr. Everett, and thus ignoring Weymouth's claim entirely. At the best, this being Weymouth, with Quincy far from satisfactory and we hope there may soon be a change.

The Expected Happens.
The election is over and this time the expected happened, at least so far as Weymouth is concerned.

There were no disappointments in the result. In every instance the man we were elected for the properties which have been universal during the entire campaign. It was a model day for people to be out about and as business is not specially rushing in any of the factories and mills, then, close for the occasion the surprise is that no larger per cent of the qualified availed themselves of the privilege of American citizenship.

On Wednesday evening, October 26, a. m. and dragged itself slowly along until half past one or two o'clock when the clocking times in different precincts.

The average per cent of the vote was sixty-six, precinct three standing at the head of the list with seventy-six while precinct four stopped at sixty per cent.

THE GENERAL RESULT.

His Representative Year All Around.
Gov. Greenhalge's plurality is 65,000. The A. P. opposition did not materialize to any extent.

The majority for no on the Women's suffrage question is 77,000. It is manifest that the men of Massachusetts do not wish the women to be tainted by being mixed up in political intrigues. We are tempted to say that women are held in very high respect and esteem by the state's men and that from a desire to keep the women sacred to the home and fire, and not from a spirit of tyranny that our men register themselves opposed to woman suffrage.

The whole country seems to be strongly republican now. From nearly everywhere the returns have been republican by large majorities, Ohio by 114,000 New York 600, Utah is republican. For the first time since the war, Maryland has been carried by the republican party.

The women's vote was 15,487 yes and 729 no, on the suffrage question. The small number of women who take interest enough to vote at all.

Sheriff Edicott is a handsome, faithful and efficient officer in an important position.

Dr. Everett's personal popularity did not get him at the state house this year and we should not think it worth. For why should personal popularity influence people's votes? We vote for policies and not for a person to represent us and not a democrat. That is the whole story. Nothing whatever against Dr. Everett.

Dr. Everett ran 24 ahead of Williams in Weymouth.

Sheriff Edicott's plurality is about 3500 in the county.

Weymouth gave Greenhalge a roaring plurality 1075, against 595 for Williams; 210 plurality.

RHEUMATIC PAINS.

Dr. David Kennedy's statement that the real cause of Rheumatism was the imperfect action of the kidneys, and that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy opened the clogged ducts permitted the secretions to pass off, relief followed. Following a natural result was no reasonable that sufficient relief would be obtained by the use of a remedy that would cure the kidneys and the Rheumatism has been cured by its use.

Could Not Walk.

Rheumatism in Hips and Back
Eyesight Affected but Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures All.

"I was troubled with pains in my back and hips. My eyes swelled so that I could not see for three or four days at a time. I became so weak that I could not get up. At last I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The first bottle helped my appetite and the second gave me strength. By the third bottle my back was a great deal better and the pains had left my hips. I am now taking over five bottles and I am as well as usual."

Free From Rheumatism
As I had never been afflicted with it, I shall continue to use Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A DESERVING CAUSE.

Who Will Aid It? The Gazette Will Receive Subscriptions.
Mr. Henry J. Shaw, who has lived in the humble way on Whitman's pond nearly the whole of his seventy-two years of life, and who has saved over thirty people from drowning, is now in a destitute condition. The old homestead was recently sold, bringing not enough to pay the mortgage and unpaid taxes and the old man, unable to work on account of infirmities, is lacking the comforts and necessities of life. In recognition of his services to the community, the Gazette has decided to publish a list of names of persons who feel so inclined, to contribute. Subscriptions may be sent to the Gazette and will be acknowledged each week in the paper.

We reprint the following article from the Gazette of October 25th.

HENRY J. SHAW.
Henry J. Shaw was born at the old homestead on Whitman's pond, April 11, 1832. At the age of eight years his parents moved to the north shore of the pond, the farm on the north shore of the pond, the buildings on which were located about fifty rods to the southeast of the old homestead. This estate was of about seventy acres and it was from this owner that the pond derived its name. Shaw, the land lying between Middle street and the west end of the old baseball grounds on the east extending almost to Broad street, then known as Ferry Lane, on the north. Lake street and Charles street were then unknown. Later he resided a few years on what are now the grounds of the Hammond, Seagrave and Shaw families. After a short time he again removed, this time returning to the place of his birth, where he has since lived.

It is for the many heroic deeds of life-saving that his career has been most remarkable and no one better deserves the medals of the Hammond, Seagrave and Shaw organizations than this old man, as yet an honored, who has done such noble work. As John Hay wrote of his "Bible," "He was a man of a sturdy and simple life."

Mr. Shaw has never kept a written record of his heroic deeds. He has only a few scraps of paper which he has kept for years. He has a few scraps of paper which he has kept for years. He has a few scraps of paper which he has kept for years.

BASEBALL.
Upon the level field behold
A gathering of pleasure's court
In friendly rivalry and sport
Swift from the pitcher's hands the ball
Flies till it meets the bat, and then
Toward it comes the batter's swing,
Trembles and drops to earth again.
Then lifts a long and lusty shout
That seems to shake the very sky.
Who knows the secret? Is it "out,"
Or that the player makes a "run?"
So every afternoon they play
Makes laughter, merriment, and cheer,
And boys of every age today
The rivals of the ancient Greeks.

SERGEANT STONE.

Sergeant Stone was a mystery to the rest of the garrison. He had been at the fort for nearly a year, having been sent from one of the recruiting stations in the north, and farther than that no one knew. That he was a gentleman by birth and breeding was evident. He was rather tall, and had a fine head set well upon a pair of square, mild shoulders. From under an overhanging brow his eyes, his black nose, above, sometimes with a faint light that betrayed an devil incarnate in his soul. Again they were dreamy, and had a faraway look in them, but always an expression of acute suffering. His mouth was finely chiseled, and his teeth were small and even. But his chin denoted weakness. He might have been anywhere between 25 and 30 years of age.

He took his place in the ranks, and by strict attention to duty was promoted to corporal. The one time the troop was in the field since he was with them he fought with such a savage delight that his comrades wondered if he had a private grudge against the Apaches. Two of the recruits were in the act of scalping Private Finney when a well directed bullet from Stone's carbine sent one of them to the hairy hunting grounds, and a chance shot from his revolver disabled the other. For this he was made sergeant. In response to Finney's profuse expressions of gratitude he merely growled:

"I wish that it had been me instead of you, and no one had interfered."

Seldom did he enter into conversation with the other soldiers. He was quiet and very morose. He had been duped all summer. He performed his duties in a mechanical sort of way, and when they were finished he sought solitude again. The advances of his comrades were met with a chilly demeanor that very effectively checked them, and Sergeant Stone became very unpopular and was left severely alone.

"I'll tell you what I think," said Private Wilkins, who was from "down east" somewhere. "I think he is one of those—fine southern gentlemen who have joined the army and got sick and very morose. He performed his duties in a mechanical sort of way, and when they were finished he sought solitude again. The advances of his comrades were met with a chilly demeanor that very effectively checked them, and Sergeant Stone became very unpopular and was left severely alone."

and live at the old place. She will at least give me credit for having done my best. Yes, I think I will go home."

His reveries were rudely interrupted by the sound of Private Finney's voice right under his window saying:

"Shure, an' I'll new make a how come take command of us. He's been at a point down south, hovin' a foin, aye toime at it. He fetched his woeild wid 'im too. Dem like, but she's as pretty as a spotted purp. An' she's got th' prettiest pair of blue eyes that I ever saw. Oh, she's swate, sure."

Sergeant Stone moved away from the window still whistling softly. He was thinking of Adele—or home. He could see her sitting down in the moonlight playing and singing. He could almost hear the wind as it rushed softly through the mangia leaves or murmured softly through the long gray festoons of Spanish moss. He thought of all the haunts of his boyish days and of his mother sleeping peacefully beneath the cedars in the lonely little burying ground on the hill. He remembered the path that he and Adele followed when they were children and went to school together. He wondered if she had changed and if she loved him as much as ever. The idea of his black nose, above, sometimes with a faint light that betrayed an devil incarnate in his soul. Again they were dreamy, and had a faraway look in them, but always an expression of acute suffering. His mouth was finely chiseled, and his teeth were small and even. But his chin denoted weakness. He performed his duties in a mechanical sort of way, and when they were finished he sought solitude again. The advances of his comrades were met with a chilly demeanor that very effectively checked them, and Sergeant Stone became very unpopular and was left severely alone."
